S O O T H E · I N S P I R E · I L L U M I N A T E

"I look for honest, beautiful materials that marry form and function. In Berman Glass editions, I find all of the above."

ARCHITECT

être

French for "to be," être is an organic non-directional texture inspired by the markings in granite. This subtle texture was initially designed in 1993 to represent nature in architecture.

With a subdued drama, être invites private conversations while it welcomes abundant light.

"Berman Glass editions illustrate the power of glass to influence how light enters the room; in essence, how we experience a space."

INTERIOR DESIGNER

aquí

Spanish for "here," aquí is an organic texture with freehand vertical markings, inspired by the delicate patterns of falling rain against a window. The design is directional, glazed to your preferred orientation.

.....
As light dances across it, aquí lends movement to sophisticated settings.

esto

Spanish for "this point on," esto is a random, multidimensional design with horizontal forms across a lightly brushed background. The design is directional, glazed to your preferred orientation.

Applied in great expanses
and selective touches, esto unifies a space.

"Berman Glass editions feel both hand-crafted and of nature—two qualities that make us feel at home in our new space."
